EXTREME SOFTNESS

MANUFACTURING NOBLE FIBRES SINCE 1808
MANUFACTURING
NOBLE FIBRES
SINCE 1808

Since its foundation under the First Empire, Brun de Vian-Tiran has been pursuing its dedication to combining rigorous selection and a constant search for the most beautiful natural fibres in the world, with design inspired by nature and inventive manufacturing. Your daily life can thus be enhanced by totally authentic softness, reflecting the gentle lifestyle of the ancient town which saw the beginnings of the company and where it continues to thrive today: Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, in Provence.

BRUN DE VIAN-TIRAN
A NAME, A HISTORY

In 1808, Charles Tiran joined his son-in-law, Laurent Vian, in creating a fulling mill on the banks of the Sorgue River. Two generations later, Emile Brun married Laurent’s granddaughter and the company was renamed Brun de Vian-Tiran. Eight generations and more than 200 years later, their direct descendants, Pierre Brun and his son Jean-Louis, are continuing the adventure. Worker families, true craftsmen and women with a deep love of noble fibres, have also accompanied the factory through several generations. Brun de Vian-Tiran, like the elegance and natural refinement of our fabrics, is timeless.
Pierre Brun, a textile engineer with fifty years of rich experience, working with his wool merchant friend Claude Gutapfel, rediscovered and built up the herds of very special Merino sheep which produce the finest wool in Europe: the trademarked Mérinos d’Arles Antique®. He also invented and perfected a metal teasel which is unique in the world to create the fluffiness of his fabrics, and has preserved the fifteen specialized skills necessary for the preparation of these marvels in France.

“In our company, true progress is based on tradition.”

Pierre Brun, 7th generation

Agronomist, oenologist and PhD in Cognitive Sciences, Jean-Louis Brun first expressed his love for materials, know-how and travel while making fine wines on three different continents. Today he has committed Brun de Vian-Tiran not just to international co-operation research projects into rare materials, but also to a dialogue with the general public through a sensorial museum project devoted to noble fibres which has opened in 2018 in Isle-sur-la-Sorgue.

“The raw materials await our skills to bring out their full beauty, and our actions thus shape the world.”

Jean-Louis Brun, 8th generation
A NEVER-ENDING QUEST FOR THE GREATEST POSSIBLE SOFTNESS

Mérinos d’Arles Antique® from the South of France, Mongolian baby camel from Khomyn Tal in the Gobi Desert… It takes years of partnerships to rediscover an outstanding type of wool and gain a thousandth of a millimetre in fibre fineness. This is the price willingly paid to enhance the softness and comfort of our final products even further. Merino, Mohair, Alpaca, Cashmere… Brun de Vian-Tiran is constantly seeking, engaged in a never-ending quest for the greatest material and immaterial softness.

EXCLUSIVITY

Mérinos d’Arles Antique®, a thirty year adventure with the shepherds

To enable French woollen mills to produce softer fabrics, Louis XVI had Spanish merinos imported in order to cross them with French sheep. The wonderful fineness thus obtained seemed unfortunately to have been lost due to further cross-breeding in the 1930s... until Pierre Brun, the 7th generation managing the family’s Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, began his quest for the Mérinos d’Arles Antique® with the help of the wool merchant Claude Gutapfel.

Seven years of research led to this legendary fineness being rediscovered in the flock belonging to the late André Eychennes. Thirty years later, the ewes and rams of the long-lost breed had, in contributing to the renewal of 15 sheep breeders’ flocks, enabled herds totalling 25,000 animals to be raised. They produce the finest wool in Europe, exclusively for our factory. All the outstanding qualities of this very warm, soft wool are expressed in the factory’s product ranges.
RESPECT & SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT
Khomyn Tal baby camel
A meeting with some NGOs enabled the identification of an exceptionally fine, soft type of baby camel hair in the Khomyn Tal region of Mongolia. Jean-Louis Brun, 8th generation to manage the Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, undertook a sustainable development and eco-responsible partnership with the nomads there. The animal breeders receive a higher income and the economic development contributes simultaneously to meeting ecological challenges.

INNOVATION
A very unique teasel
The natural teasel, stem of an inflorescence cultivated since ancient times, long enabled the soft fleeciness of fabrics to be lifted. When it disappeared as a crop in the 1990s, textile industries had to seek out other technical solutions. But Brun de Vian-Tiran remained faithful to the principle of the traditional teasel. Pierre Brun, 7th generation to manage the factory, led twenty years of research and development to create a biomimetic metal teasel, which reproduces the delicacy and efficiency of the natural teasel to give fabrics which are both soft and resistant.
CREATIONS INSPIRED BY NATURE

The world becomes more gentle with Brun de Vian-Tiran’s creations, inspired by Nature and revealing all the softness it can offer. Beautiful raw materials - and Nature - respond so well when treated with respect! Our fabrics thus express the unique features and personalities of these noble fibres, preparing them to be part of the lives of equally unique people.

NATURAL FIBRES

The result of natural selection over millions of years, wool-type fibres have been created by Nature to envelop and protect many mammal species. Their unique ability to regulate humidity gives them outstanding properties which contribute to our well-being. The healthy microclimate they create makes them a thermal regulator as well as an excellent ally in the fight against allergies.

EXCELLENCE PARTNERSHIP
Brun de Vian-Tiran brings in young designers

For the last few years, Brun de Vian-Tiran has been involved in a partnership with the French National School of Industrial Creation (ENSCI) Textile Design Workshops, in Paris. This is an excellence partnership in which the Masters students, who have already graduated from the best art trades schools, contribute their creativity and their high level of technical know-how. Able to work with the constraints and the assets of our factory’s production tools, the students design a collection-capsule each year which is selected and produced by Brun de Vian-Tiran.

“A partnership which is both inspirational and rigorous.”
Marion Lévy, Director of ENSCI-Design Textile
Our factory is an industry in which human intervention remains dominant. The Brun de Vian-Tiran factory relies on skills acquired during more than two centuries of experience working on highly complex products: prestige blankets, for which we are the leader in France. Our teams, artisans in noble fibres, know they can count on their skilled hands and eyes for each step in the process, and contribute extreme care to the quest for perfection. They can thus create fabrics destined to be totally soft and comfortable.

FROM THE FIBRE TO THE THREAD: SPINNING

The wools are sourced from the five continents, and arrive in our Isle-sur-la-Sorgue factory in bales. Here, our treasury of fibres in reserve can meet our needs for several years! The first step in their transformation is spinning: the fibres will be sorted and aligned by the carding machine, a complex mechanical process, to give a “sliver”. This band of fibres will then be lengthened and twisted on the ring spinner to give a thread.

FROM THE THREAD TO THE FABRIC: WEAVING

Next, weaving will criss-cross the longitudinal warp threads with the transversal weft material. There are hundreds of ways to interweave these threads, depending on the type of fabric we wish to create: light or thick, feltability, patterned effect...
FROM THE CLOTH TO YOU: THE FINAL PRODUCT

Finally, the cloth is cut and possibly edged, labelled and stored, ready to be delivered with no delays. The process will have taken fifteen steps altogether, requiring 3 weeks of work. For each of the steps carried out machines have always been at the service of human skills: constant attention and care, exercised by craftspeople with a wealth of experience gained during over 17 years of experience on average, the worthy heirs of a know-how passed down to eager apprentices for over two centuries.

FROM THE FABRIC TO THE FINAL CLOTH: THE FINISHING

Fabric finishing basically consists in fulling - or felting - the fabric, then gently scratching it with teasels to raise the nap. Fulling was the original trade of Brun de Vian-Tiran in 1808, and has never stopped being a speciality of the factory. It is a little-known but essential step, and gives our cloths their extended longevity. The operation is still carried out using teasels: in certain cases natural teasels and in others metal teasels which are unique to Brun de Vian-Tiran, in order to bring out all the softness and character of the natural fibres while preserving the fabric.
In one wing of the Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, located in the charming town of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, you will find the Brun de Vian-Tiran Filaventure: an hour and a half of sensorial immersion in a fascinating world where you can see, hear, touch... our quest for noble fibres on the five continents and beyond, creations inspired by nature, the fifteen steps of fibre transformation skilfully carried out by our teams, partnerships in design and in fibre selection...
In a tour guided by the Filambule, a fantasy character, our fabrics tell their story here in Isle-sur-la-Sorgue.

Discover the wool-bearing animals which troop down from the mountain, heading for the Filaventure. Travel the world in a quest for the fines fibres it can provide. Zoom in on wools from the alpaca, the llama, or the cashmere goat under a microscope. Watch our factory teams at work, and listen to their stories. Work real machines yourself. Feel the fabric as it changes through the different steps of its transformation. Then when night comes, experience the softness nature can reveal by draping yourself in our fabrics... giving an extra touch of soul to your home and gently surrounding you every day.
Brun de Vian-Tiran
An eco-responsible, benevolent local enterprise a timeless craft passing on values for the world of tomorrow

JOB SATISFACTION
A highly skilled French team with the manual and technical expertise to carry out the 15 steps necessary in manufacturing our creations. On average, our people have worked for Brun de Vian-Tiran for over 17 years, and for some there have been up to 5 generations of history with the firm.

CONFIDENCE THROUGHOUT THE SUPPLY CHAIN
Number one transformer of French wools in France, always ready to satisfy the most demanding of customers, Brun de Vian-Tiran has initiated a rebirth in the art of wool working.

ON-GOING SKILL TRANSFER
The more experienced pass on their know-how to our apprentices, to ensure the preservation of a craft which has become rare. A company culture with a long-term vision.

A LOCAL ENTERPRISE WELL ANCHORED IN ITS REGION
Brun de Vian-Tiran is a living witness to the origins of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue, born from the textile industry. With our Noble Fibre Sensorial Museum, the factory is contributing to the renown of our home town.

A CLOSE RELATIONSHIP WITH NATURE FOR EIGHT GENERATIONS
An exclusive choice of natural materials, a naturally ecological sheep breeding programme, manufacturing processes which respect the environment.

For our younger visitors, have fun with a booklet and an investigation to carry out with Edgar, the little Brun de Vian-Tiran sheep.

At the dawn of a social renewal based on solidarity, local supplies, and eco-responsibility, crafts from days gone by are passing on the values we need to build a softer, kinder world.

A world where, surrounding ourselves with objects which add to the soul of our homes, we can contribute to maintaining highly skilled traditional jobs in France.

A world where, for many decades, a family human-scale industry has spread the renown of French wools and their exceptional contributions to well-being among the most discerning of customers.

A world which is rediscovering the obvious eco-responsibility of a noble material coming from animals grazing on peaceful fallow lands, of manufacturing practices which respect the environment, and of sustainable products whose care is simple and economical.

A world of design and creativity, where together with the greatest French industrial creation school, we have created ‘La 240’, reinventing the humble blanket in a pure fabric rich in patterns and colours inspired by Provence’s seasonal sheep migrations - for you to discover in this catalogue.

Excellence, solidarity, local supply, sustainability, creativity, and respect – all united throughout the ages in our craft.

We are very happy to present our Autumn-Winter 2020 catalogue. You will be delighted to see so many of our products! Not just the Spring-Summer creations from our previous catalogue, but also the classics and the newcomers for the seasons which are approaching - a wool comforter for all seasons, the Athéna; an all-new comforter filled with soft, warm Alpaca wool fibre; and many different colour assortments for existing ranges of blankets, throws, and shawls ... Organic cotton is now standard for our mattress topper covers.

Our thanks to you all, our ambassadors! We are proud to accompany you towards a softer world, and wish you a wonderful season.

Pierre Brun, seventh generation managing the Brun de Vian-Tiran factory, rediscovered the Mérinos d’Arles Antique®, a breed of sheep sponsored by Louis XVI, and with the aid of shepherds in the Camargue region he has recreated an exclusive herd. This wool is both precious and ideal, the finest in Europe and the most crimped in the world. It is a unique combination of the properties of softness, warmth and breathability. Available in double-sided colours, as well as in the historical pattern of our factory: the iconic Camargue checkerboard.
MOHAIR
400 g/m²

Proudly adopted by many homes, the Mohair blanket was created for the first time on the European continent by Louis Brun, the sixth generation to run our factory. Its lightness, softness, and extraordinary breathing properties make it the blanket for total well-being. Its marvellous fibre comes from the Angora goat, extremely white and gleaming, and enables it to magnify dye colours and gives a unique wispy feel.

'LA 240'
Transhumance

'La 240' was born from a tri-partite collaboration of French excellence, an initiative led by Brun de Vian-Tiran: the finest wool in Europe, rediscovered by our company, combined with inspirations from France's top industrial creation school and the skills of our own unique factory.

For over 30 years, Brun de Vian-Tiran has been working with sheep breeders in our region to enable sheep flocks bearing the finest wool in Europe to be re-established, while students at the ENSCI, the top French industrial creation school, recently worked on rethinking a timeless classic, the blanket. From this was born 'La 240': all the essentials of a blanket in a 240 cm unhemmed square, in the very best fabric. Teasel-raised just on one side to maximize its soft cuddly warmth, the other side reveals all the rich finesse of the patterns created by the student designers.
Transhumance

100 % Mérinos d’Arles Antique® wool
350 g/m²

The traditional seasonal migration known as the “Transhumance”, which our sheep flocks continue to follow, was the theme inspiring this collection: three stages passing through villages, old trails, and then wild high pastures, with a route from established fields back to nature. Six designs with an amazing wealth of finesse and harmony, with a careful balance of asymmetry, constantly revealing something new...

‘La 240’ is ready to surround you, protect you, unite or isolate... Nomadic in its concept, this blanket reminds us of its primary functions – something to accompany you, close to you and yet open-hearted, a familiar protector. It can even be cut into four baby blankets – just ask us for the variation you desire!

BEJA

20 % Linen - 80 % Merino Wool
260 g/m²
150 x 200 cm

Here, the coolness of linen has blended with the softness of wool in a beautifully natural summer-weight casual throw. The herring-bone weave combines typical Mediterranean colours for a guaranteed visual wow factor. Its carefully-selected composition will surround you with gentle warmth through your summer evenings. A throw to take with you everywhere once winter’s chill has ended!
Inspired by the richness of the body painting and sacred masks of certain African tribes, the audacious, creative weft patterns set the style for each throw in our Tribu range. The contrasts of black and white together with the short fringes of these throws give them a definite breath of modernity. Our Mérinos d’Arles Antique® wool contributes its softness and combines warmth with fluidity.

A practical accessory for a lifestyle that is becoming ever more nomadic, the leather strap on our throws makes your trips more convenient and stylish. For this beautifully made object, the leather is selected with great care and its traditional tanning is exclusively vegetal. This supple leather is a robust material with a soft feel called “candle wax”. The Brun de Vian-Tiran brand is branded onto the strap handle.

Sheep wool: wools from France and the Alps for their volume and warmth, wools from Australia for their softness...

Mérinos d’Arles Antique®: the finest wool in Europe, rediscovered by Brun de Vian-Tiran, exclusively ours and part of a sustainable ethical development programme with sheep breeders for nearly 30 years.

Silk: Brun de Vian-Tiran has selected Mulberry silk, from mulberry-fed silkworms, for our finely-woven shawls, or Tussah silk, more bulky and warmer, for our quilts.

Cotton: oh, so fine - cotton is perfect for our summer products, especially when coping with humidity.

Linen: elegant, with its typical crisp feel and its coolness so well adapted to the heat of summer. This is a very strong fibre and a natural thermo regulator.

Mohair goat: Louis Brun, sixth generation at Brun de Vian-Tiran, was the first on the European continent to create blankets and throws in Mohair. In doing so, he brought simple bed blankets into a world of lightness, softness, and aesthetic pleasure.
Camel and baby camel: under its very thick, rough outer coat, the camel offers us a very fine fuzzy undercoat which is not only very soft and warm, but also strong. Brun de Vian-Tiran is working with NGOs in Mongolia for ethical, eco-responsible sustainable development.

Cashmere goat: the Cashmere goat’s under-coat fibre is well known for its fineness and very special feel, called “soapy”. Brun de Vian-Tiran distinguishes among different qualities of Cashmere depending on their origins, bringing out their best features in warm blankets or quilts, refined throws, light shawls...

Cashgora: a very rare cross-breed, with wool as shiny and white as mohair and as soft as Cashmere.

Himalayan Yak: very soft hair, in natural shades of grey, cream, or brown, for throws and scarves.

Yangir, the Himalayan Ibex: incomparable fineness, in an elegant natural grey, with an outstanding, unforgettable feel.

Alpaca, baby Alpaca and baby Llama from the Andes: long, soft hairs, in an amazing range of natural shades. Our Alpaca mainly comes from Peru, and the baby Llama from Bolivia.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR BRUN DE VIAN-TIRAN FABRIC

A Brun de Vian-Tiran textile creation can give you pleasure for years if you use it carefully and take simple precautions. To enjoy it as long as possible, here are a few recommendations.

Wool and wool-type fibres (alpaca, camel, cashmere...) do not attract dust and absorb very little fatty material, so they are very easy to take care of. Natural humidity regulators, they do not encourage the development of mites or bacteria: it has been recognized scientifically that they are a positive factor in the fight against allergies. Shaking the articles, airing them well and exposing bedding to the sun from time to time is enough for their regular care. Most of our products can be dry-cleaned, and some can be washed. Strictly respect the care codes which are noted on the labels.

Certain wool-type fibres, especially the finest of them, are naturally likely to pill. To protect the fabrics from this, they should not undergo excessive rubbing. We advise you not to use a throw on the seat of your sofa, and a sheet, duvet cover, or pillow case must protect blankets, comforters, pillows, or mattress toppers from direct contact with the sleeper.

A mohair blanket or throw can lose a few fibres when you start to use it. Simply brush it lightly with a clothes brush to remove the fibres which may tend to detach.

Protection against moths and mites is essential. You will find suitable approved products on the market.

Feel free to contact us for advice on the use and care of our creations. If any difficulty or incident should arise, we will answer you as quickly as possible and will do our best to find a solution for you.

With these simple precautions, your Brun de Vian-Tiran article will continue to make the world softer for you as the years go by...
